KK 204 and KK 205 capsule heads for Sennheiser's 2000 Series

The diamond for your premium wireless has finally arrived. Introducing the Neumann KK 204 and KK 205 capsules, which, when used with Sennheiser's 2000 Series, are the wireless versions of the famed KMS 104 and 105 wired handhelds. These new capsules from Neumann provide natural warmth with no exaggerated bass boost, and are a perfect complement to the powerful, reliable 2000 Series.

KK 204	KK 205
Cardioid capsule	Super-cardioid capsule
The capsule of the KMS 104 vocal microphone, exclusively for use with the Sennheiser SKM 2000 wireless system. The capsule head provides the best possible suppression of sound originating from 180° to the rear.	The capsule of the KMS 105 vocal microphone, exclusively for use with the Sennheiser SKM 2000 wireless system. The capsule head has greater directivity and maximizes incident sound from the front as opposed to sound from the rear.

Both the KK 204 and KK 205 feature:

- Reduced handling noise – very low sensitivity to handling noise with a steep roll-off from approximately 78 Hz
- Reduced plosives ('p' popping) and sibilance (harsh 's' sounds) – both capsules feature a foam lined grille to ensure smooth sound
- Wide dynamic range with high SPL capability – 126 dB-A of dynamic range with 150 dB MAX SPL
- Low feedback – Incredibly smooth and flat frequency response provided high gain before feedback
- Easy to service components – Neumann understands the rigors of the road and has made the KK 204 and KK 205 exceptionally robust but easy to service if necessary
